

Alone

Today the world is heavy My burdens are hard to bear Friends are few and others fickle Can't find a listening ear

Nothing and no one is at the next turn Dig deep, look hard, find will Because the answers although never far aren't at the bottom of a glass or in a pill Can't find an end to the search?
Look in the silence beyond night's fall to find the ultimate strength alone is within

I was born alone and will die the same way with no one to hold my hand I alone am left to pray that I have the strength to carry on and die another day
